URAC awards Asuris Comprehensive Wellness Accreditation
Asuris among first health plans in nation to be recognized by URAC for wellness

SPOKANE — Asuris Northwest Health announced today it has been awarded Comprehensive Wellness Accreditation from URAC, a Washington, D.C.-based health care accrediting organization that establishes quality standards for the health care industry. The accreditation recognizes Asuris for its overall commitment to wellness and underscores the company's success in helping employers improve employee health and reduce health care costs.

“At Asuris and its parent company Regence, our priority is supporting our members’ health and well-being,” said Dennis Chong, M.D., Regence chief medical officer. “As an affiliate of the first health plan on the West coast and one of the first in the nation to receive URAC Comprehensive Wellness Accreditation, we take our commitment to wellness seriously.”

Asuris offers its employer groups and individual members a wide variety of wellness tools, including:

- Health coach: matches members with an Asuris-registered health coach to help them meet health goals such as losing weight, stopping smoking and improving sleep quality.
- Vitality: a customized worksite wellness program conducted by a wellness consultant working to help groups create and personalize their own health and wellness strategy.
- Health risk assessment (HRA): online tool that employers can use to evaluate self-reported health risks and identify modifiable behaviors that impact the group’s overall health.
- myAsuris.com: facilitates online wellness programs that include the HRA and a six-week healthy living program, and allows members to earn rewards for completing these programs.

“Asuris should be commended for meeting strict quality standards on wellness,” said Alan P. Spielman, URAC president and CEO. “It is critically important for health care organizations to make a commitment to quality and accountability. URAC accreditation is a demonstration of that commitment.”

Comprehensive Wellness is the first new accreditation program from URAC with integrated program evaluation and performance measurement components. The new Comprehensive Wellness standards and measures were developed by an expert advisory group of employers, health plans, consumer representatives, public benefits organizations, health care professional associations, providers and wellness companies.
